

West Texas Rivalry

Cruising into his senior year of high school, Rob Baxter has got it all planned out, or at least he thinks that he has. Despite his killer body, his popularity, and his thinking that hes the obvious choice for the starting quarterback of his football team, Rob is thrown an incomplete pass when Anders Kirkpatrick moves to Mineral Flats, Texas from California. Immediately, Rob detests Anders and begins to consider him a rival for everything from his girlfriend to his position of starting quarterback. Finally, when he confronts the blond California football jock, Rob is in for the surprise of his life. The short story is approximately 10,000 words. For mature readers only. Features: jocks, rivals and male bonding.
