

Too Young To Die: Chris Bristow English Racer

Chris Bristow was a talented and fast racer, the son of a south London car hire operator. Chris was already exceeding the performances of some of racing's best known drivers, men like Jack Brabham, the 1959 Formula One champion. Driving in just his 4th Grand Prix race Bristow was dueling with Ferrari driver Willy Mairesse when he took a racing line from which he could not correct himself. In the next few moments he would wreck and die, one of two fatal wrecks that day at the Spa-Francorchamps, Belgium circuit.
